1. Faculty Web Pages (Rick Taggart)

2. Identifying potential online programming – categorize possible online programs as:
   ➢ Implemented:

   ➢ Ready for Implementation (RI): A program must have the majority of its coursework presently offered in a distance format, a commitment from the University and academic department's faculty to support the program, and an identified need and/or sustainable demand.

   ➢ Under Development (UD): A program's faculty has expressed an interest to eventually move towards full distance implementation, has an identified need or demand, and a considerable number of the required courses are either presently offered or being developed using distance education technologies.

   ➢ Under Consideration: Implementation of these programs is dependent on a number of factors including student demand and faculty commitment to course development via the distance technology format. This category is more long-term (i.e., 3 – 5 years).
