

The Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference (RMAC) has announced the cancellation of all spring championship and non-championship competitions and travel for the remainder of the current academic year due to COVID-19. President Foster believed a better course of action was to wait and assess new information over the coming weeks. Nonetheless, CMU will abide by this decision.

Similar news this week from the NCAA and RMAC about athletics and cancellations has been difficult for coaches, students and staff who have all worked tirelessly this semester. We know that today Colorado experienced the state's first COVID-19 fatality. This development underscores the gravity of recent developments in Colorado that were shared today by Governor Polis.

CMU Athletics continues to work with federal, state and local health care professionals about what we can do as a department and as a campus. Developments are changing by the hour and we will try to keep you updated on any new information. Please keep referring to the CMU campus Covid-19 webpage for updated information as it becomes available.

This is an emotional time for all of us concerning athletics and we want to make sure the health and safety of our students and student-athletes are looked after.
