Policy regarding Network Marketing Companies
Career Services of Colorado Mesa University considers employers engaging in one or more of the following practices to be network marketing companies:

- Sponsorship of an individual in setting up his/her own business for the purpose of selling products or services and/or recruiting other individuals to set up their own business.
- Requirement of an initial investment from this individual, with the company itself serving as an umbrella or parent corporation. The initial investment may be direct payment of a fixed fee, payment to attend an orientation or training session, and/or purchase of a starter kit.
- Compensation is often in the form of straight commission, fees from others under their sponsorship in the company, and/or percentage of sales generated by others.

Network marketing companies are not considered "employers" by Career Services and are not eligible to participate in any recruiting activities that are solely sponsored by Colorado Mesa University, including career fairs, internships, on-campus interviewing, resume referrals, vacancy announcements, employer presentations, or sponsorship for on-campus activities.

- If requested, provide a position description for a valid job opening.
- In accordance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, release candidate information provided by the college or university exclusively and only to the identified employer. Re-disclosure of candidate information is not permitted.
