

Panel Discussion: History, Present, and Future of ATMs on the Eastern Slope of Colorado

Speakers

- Scott Lorenz, Colorado Springs Utilities
- Todd Doherty, Western Water Partnerships
- Alex Funk, Colorado Water Conservation Board

Abstract

After more than a decade of attempts to develop ATM's as a viable water supply option to meet the municipal water supply gap, much has been learned but more work remains. In this panel you will hear from east slope water professionals that are actively involved in developing ATM's that work. Discussion will focus on various perspectives on what an ATM is, what participants need from them, and what needs to change if they are to successfully meet the lofty goals that the Colorado Water Plan has for them.
