

Student Water Field Conference

September 21-23, 2018

Grand Mesa, Colorado

Spend a fall week-end on western Colorado's Grand Mesa learning about water management and snow science with college students from across the state!

Cost to students will be $20, which covers lodging and food.

Speakers/ Topics

- Dr. Gigi Richard, Fort Lewis College –Colorado Basin hydrology, snow field science
- Hannah Holm, Colorado Mesa University – Basics of CO water law & use
- David Graf, CO Parks & Wildlife – How CPW manages water for wildlife and recreation
- Ben Krouse, CO Division of Water Resources – The job of a Water Commissioner, water management in the Collbran Project
- Bob Woods, Collbran Conservancy District
- Other topics: hydropower, ranch irrigation, domestic water provision

Lodging, Meals & Transportation

- We will provide lodging in cabins at Vega Lodge (<http://vegalodge.com/>). Cabins have various combinations of queen and double beds and futons. Depending on participation numbers, some people may need to double up in beds or sleep in sleeping bags on camping pads.
- We will provide dinner Friday & Saturday night, breakfast Saturday & Sunday morning, and lunch on Saturday. We can accommodate dietary restrictions.
- We encourage carpooling and will have vans leaving from CMU and Metro campuses.

More Information & Application Instructions

Get full details on directions on how to apply at www.coloradomesa.edu/Water-Center