

Amy Green

Amy has twenty-five years of public relations and management experience, including 12 years managing the Rural Water Technology Alliance. RWTA is a non-profit organization dedicated to improving conditions in rural areas by assisting in implementing low cost monitoring and automation in order to leverage technology. RWTA has been successfully automating water resources since 2005. Her time as RWTA manager has allowed her to obtain a firm level of expertise in the effectiveness of the real-time software, and she oversees all the records associated with its development and implementation.
