

Caroline Nash

CK Blueshift

Caroline Nash is a professional hydrologist and geomorphologist with experience at the intersection of water conservation, stream restoration and policy. With a PhD in Water Resources Engineering and a registered GIT in Idaho, she has extensive knowledge of the scientific fields and regulatory constraints relevant to watershed-scale conservation efforts. Her work combines field work, remote sensing and modelling to create innovative and data-driven solutions for restoration design, monitoring and compliance.